This proposal is an outrage! Public lands are for all to access and enjoy regardless of household income or net worth. By following through with this plan, you are forcing the general public, whom put you in office, out of something that rightfully belongs to them. Perhaps we should start leasing our congressional seats rather than filling them with elected candidates.

If this proposal is completed as drafted, what will be the next proposal on the agenda? How far will it go, and where will it stop. Oregon does not need to become a state that loses control of its fish, wildlife and natural resources because of a leasee trying to capitalize on what already belongs to the public. What is next, allowing ranches to manag their own big game herds just to bring in the ultra rich on a canned hunt while the rest of us tax payers get forced out of our hunting places because of you? I don't think so.

Any good business makes smart decisions that result in smart money. This is not smart money. The long-term cost to the state is immeasurable.
